

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image data transmitting apparatus comprises an encoder which encodes input image data, and a transmitter which packetizes encoded data output from the encoder and transmits data packets. The transmitter comprises a delay device which controls a transmission timing of each of the data packets thereby to transmit the data packets at intervals longer than a predetermined value.

TOP SECRET